Loss of Personal Identity.

REPORT OF A CURIOUS AND INTERESTING CASE IN BELMONT COUNTY, OHIO.

Dr. A. H. Heweter, of St. Clairsville, Ohio, has contributed to the Hospital Gazette of hundred and five pounds, New York City the following account of a curious case of loss of personal identity, the victim being now under his care in the County Infirmary in that town : County Infirmary, a very interesting case. There ted to death. is no discoverable bodily disease, but a very peculiar mental state. The patient has lost all knowlhe is, where he came from, or whither he was going. He became an inmate of our infirmary about nine months since. The following is his history since taken in charge by our county officials. All previous to that is a blank to himself and entirely unknown to us ;

"About the time referred to, nine months since, he lound himself standing upon the depot platform in Bellaire City with a little money in his pocket, and a small traveling bag in his hand,-This bag contained a change of linen, pair of scissors, and some blank paper like that used by an album worth $1,000. It is to be sold at auction editors. His clothes were quite genteel, and the underwest in his valise was neat and clean. His entire appearance was that of a well cared for of an arm which has been useless for years from gentleman ready for business. There was no paralysis. The arm was broken, and after healing name on any property about him indicating who from the resetting its use returned. he was, except on some part of his effects was the name Ralph. This is what he is called in the in-

"After thinking and thinking while at the depot, he at last went to the nearest hotel, and gave the landlord a candid statement of his very strange condition. He asked for a bed, said he had a little money, that he would be no trouble, and that he telt sure this strange mental sickness would soon pass off. The landlord became intereated in his case. The same day a gentleman came to Bellair to lecture on temperance. Stopping at the same hotel, he soon made the acquaintance of Kalph and invited him to attend the lecture. While attentively listening, some impulse came over him which he could not resist. and he found himself out in the street smashing the saloon windows with a big club. The roughs was fatally crushed. ran out, beat and abused him badly, breaking the neck of the humerus, and beating one side all black and blue. This brought him into the hands of the police. But the lecturer, the doctor, the landlord, and Mayor all became interested in finding out who he was. They made every effort, but utterly iniled.

"He certainly is a man of more than ordinaof business, and is very expert with the pen. Some think that he must have been connected with the pross. Others, a clerk in some calling in But it was in the lourth story that the flames which the use of the pen and nguring was the faffy habit. In this way alone can they explain his great experiness. His knowledge is entirely correct upon all matters disconnected with the question of identity. He has the use of his mental powers in all other directions. I made him, after ant. He has put up all the medicine, &c. I procured him 'Parish's Pharmacy,' and in a remarkably short time he was able to fill any prescription

I required, and in many other ways to assist me. "So great is his general knowledge, and so cor rect all his recollections of general events, and all special duties imposed upon him, that many were skeptical, and believed him to be feigning. But, after nine months close observation, we are all forced to believe what he says-a man with no knowledge of his personal identity. He is about fifty years of ago: rather spare; has dark hair, well sprinkled with gray, and is quite a gentleman in appearance. He has made himself so use ful, agreeable, and so anxious to return all he can for the benefits he has received, that he was presented with a new suit of clothes, and directed to eat at the Superintendent's table. I report the case both on account of its psychological interest. and that possibly it may lead to his identity,"

Truth and justice compel me to deny the statement with reference to General Hancock's participation in the execution of Mrs. Surratt, which appeared in the Washington Post of this morning. I attended Mrs. Surratt on that occasion and met with no interference on the part of General Hancock. General Hancock had great sympathy for this unfortunate sady and waited until the last moment, hoping for a reprieve. I consider it an act of justice to General Hancock that this statement should be made.

An assertion made to-day by an ex-army officer was abundantly corroborated in the War Department that so strong was General Hancock's hope for a reprieve for Mrs. Surratt that on the day of the execution be stationed relays of cavalry along the streets from the White House to the Arsenal, that no delay might ensue in communicating the fact. In the Arsenni are photographs of the senffold at the time of the execution. They show Father Walter ut Mrs. Surratt's side.

REFITTED AND ENLARGED HOUSE

Though our vast premises seemed abundantly large for our business, yet the wonderful increase of the past year no it necessary to provide additional accommodations. Spacious Galleries, of easy access, commanding fine views of the base place, have been eracted to afford required room. Other changes have been made that will give comfort to the thouse who like the Grand Depot and approve of its methods of business.

The Millinery, Upholstery, House Supply and China Departments are greatly enlarged. A new and comfortable Ladies' Room has been provided, where those who buy at the various counters and desired pay for all at one time, can get the goods and make payments without delay.

The New Stations to Receive Cash, and the Electric Bells to call Cash Boys, will prevent delays in making clamp We are confident that the time taken is not any more than is requisite to conduct business by a safe system to sell ches We mean to meet every expressed wish of our customers, if in our power, both in the stock on sale and in the can niences of the establishment. None but Courteous Clerks and Experienced Heads of Departments shall hold places in Grand Depot, if we know it. By truly serving our customers we hope to prove the value of the plans we have fixed to that have only as yet been partially developed. Without disparaging others we propose to attend strictly to developing The first markets in the world, the places where goods are produced, are being visited by our buyers, who are expen Without intermediate profits we will transfer the goods to our counters and give them to our customers with one fair no Our relations with foreign houses are now being rapidly perfected,

No subterfuges will be permitted in selling goods. The customers who buy of us will buy fairly, and, even after extent of his swindling operations amounts to have bought, may return the goods if they desire, though the article be a silk velvet cloak pattern or a satin dress man We mean to deal liberally with our customers, because they deal liberally with us. We will trust our customers to do n the Keckuk, Iowa, bar. The local paper says the by us, and ask them to trust us to do right by them. When we fail to do this, we ask that it may be pointed out.

THERE ARE NOW FORTY DEPARTMENTS.
